

I believe that the do not call list should stay as is. I personally hate when I am doing something and interrupted by someone calling and selling things. My children hate when I need to stop reading or playing with them to answer a phone call that's not important.